Please Note: I have transcribed this to the best of my ability. Sound bites of parties speaking simultaneously and those which were inaudible to me have been deleted from the transcript. If I guessed at a word, it was followed by a ()? A___ (blank line) indicates I could not understand the word or phrase and three periods ... indicate an interruption in the dialogue of one party by another. Thank you for your understanding. MK

Welcome to Yada Yah Radio, I'm here with Kirk and Dee. I understand you've done some research, Kirk. You've listened to and have studied a comprehensive review of the state of the world from one of the premier think tanks, and what you've heard is consistent with what we've been presenting on Yada Yah Radio in terms of where the world is headed, what it means for Jews in the world and how many of these key players are moving the world toward economic collapse, worldwide famine, and most importantly and negatively towards nuclear war. We've been quite detailed in explaining exactly how and why this is happening, who the players are and when it's going to come to fruition. It sounds like quite recently one of the leading think tanks in the world has come to the same conclusion.

KIRK: The hardest thing for Americans to grasp is that they are patriotic, religious, political and extraordinarily arrogant, which Yahowah talks about. They have spit on Israel and to make things worse they have tried moving everybody around. Now they are poking the Russian bear and they think they can control China. We are just delusional.

The first issue it addressed was a new alignment of the world. They made a list of largest world economies GDP percentages and purchasing power. China, of course, is the leader at 37%, the US was 25-35%, (don't get lost in the details here, just follow with me a minute) India was at 11.75%, Japan at 6.11%, Germany at 5.25%, Russia is only 4.37%. Indonesia is 4%. ___ I aligned the ones that have been joining together (China, Indonesia and India) and that ...

YADA: Of course, Russia and to a large degree now Brazil, the BRIC initiative is joining them.

KIRK: Yes. I put all the BRICs together and that comes up to about 54% of the economic power of the world. That leaves the other side of the shore, France, England, Germany and Japan with the US is about 44%. But here's what's really interesting: Japan is already leaning towards China. They are making all sorts of deals with China because they can see that nobody is going to defend them. Germany has made all kinds of overtures trying to get out of this deal; they are not high on invading Russia. They don't want to give tanks away. The UK will stay with American and who knows about France. That come up to about 76% of the economic power of the world against the people you're trying to fight all the time. We don't make anything, so we are in trouble.

YADA: We're pretty good at making weapons, but even then we need to buy all the raw materials from Russia and China which puts us in a very difficult spot. I'm not sure even now that we are the leader in the most effective weapons. If the superpowers go to war, trust me on this, it will not be through battle groups and aircraft carriers in which the United States is dominant. It will not be through strategic bombers. It's going to be through hypersonic missiles whether they are shot from submarines or silos, those carrying nuclear warheads are going to be the unstoppable foe of war between superpowers and we are not on the cutting edge of that, not that I would encourage anyone to be, but the countries that we are antagonizing are, and they have put their submarines off the US coasts.

Just this week Russia said that continuing to escalate the Ukrainian War by sending in battle tanks and long-range missiles, which is what the United States has done recently, Russia has responded saying, "You're setting us up to have only one option, and the first to feel that option will be London because they have been antagonists all along. Then we will pick two US cities and the US can figure out which ones they will be." They are talking about sending in a tank; they are talking about a nuclear weapon. This is a devastating consequence. I've been trying to talk America down off this ledge for over a decade, and we go further and further out on it.

It's interesting to look at the formation of BRIC which I am convinced is going to be the economic fate of the world and the demise of America's status as the lone reserve currency. When we lose that status our fiat money, which is a liability and not an asset, (look at one of your bills, it's a Promissory Note) you recognize that it has no value. We will not be able to fund our debt even with the illusion of Quantitative Easing which is simply slight of hand. The world will not need to keep US dollars in reserve to buy petrol and other goods and services; they will be able to use any one of a dozen different currencies. So, the world will be awash in dollars, we won't be able to continue funding our debt, inflation will become far worse than it is now and will rise to much higher double digits. It is inevitable that The United States' economy will collapse; there is no remedy for it. At this point we are too far off that cliff in the death spiral in having destroyed our currency.

Clearly the thing that exacerbated it the most was the idiotic response to COVID where we shut down the economy and then tried to jump start it by flooding it with funny money. Second only to that was when we imposed sanctions on Russia for a war that we egged them into and then gave them no choice and paralyzed world economies trying to emerge from the consequence of COVID. That one-two punch absolutely devastated the world.

A third aspect to this is there are three arms to this all pointing to the same direction. The United States has been belligerent. We have demanded that countries provide arms to the Ukraine, we have demanded that they sanctioned Russia and follow everything we tell them to do, and frankly, the Europeans are tired of freezing to death and starving. This has been disastrous for them, and they recognize what the United States did, particularly in Afghanistan, that we can't be trusted. They are tired of the United States being literally the biggest hypocrites in the world (we blame everyone for doing what we do the most of), and for badgering countries to do what we dictate. So, BRIC was created to do away with the US dollar so that no one in the world would have to be badgered by the US. The moment Saudi Arabia accepts any one of the BRIC currencies it's over and we will have economic collapse.

Saudi Arabia's largest customer is not the United States. It is China. China is very close to having a pipeline that will run all the way from Saudi Arabia into China. It runs now almost all the way from the Caspian Sea in Iran, I think it is nearly finished, (which is why they back Iran) all the way into China and there's not much that needs to be done to tie Saudi Arabia into it. It's over the moment that occurs. I think it is inevitable and as you say the countries that are part of BRIC are: Brazil, which is the largest economy in South America, Russia, which is not losing the war in the Ukraine even though we are sending stunning amounts of weapons there, India, which has the largest population in the world, and China. – BRIC. China has investments throughout Africa and the Middle East. Even Israel's second largest trading partner is China. They are so invested in Central America and all these floundering countries because of the one-two punch of COVID and Russian sanctions that economically they have the world in a noose. They will prevail. They will not allow the US dollar to continue controlling them.

I think the only reason that we are still playing the game is that the United States is their biggest market. Other than the funny money held by the Federal Reserve and the Quantitative Easing, they are the largest holder of US treasuries. They have not increased in a decade while our debt has quadrupled. They don't want to lose the value of that, and they don't want to lose the US as a market immediately so they will continue to invest in that Belt and Road Initiative and soon they just flat out won't need us, and when they don't need us, it's over for us. We have put ourselves in a horrible position.

KIRK: There are two more parts. One is the big lie that Russia is losing the war in the Ukraine. Russia is not losing the war. The highest death toll of Russians could be as many as 20,000; however, the Ukrainians are losing eight for every one Russian that is killed.

Here are some factoids to help you make up your mind on how well they are doing:

Ukraine started with 2,000 tanks; they just about don't have any now. That's why they're so desperate to get some tanks from Germany.

YADA: The United States did promise them a boatload of M1 Abrams.

KIRK: The US also has been begging nations like South Korea to send weapons if they have any.

YADA: Yes. As a matter of fact, Israel had weapons under US custody someplace in the world and the United States, even though Israel is trying to stay neutral, shipped them to the Ukraine. We are really dastardly.

KIRK: In any case, here's the situation. They analyzed what NATO had and NATO said they cannot put together more than 100,000 troops and then even if they could get them there, which would take a minimum of two weeks to a month, they can't move them around the Ukraine because all the railroads and all the infrastructure has been bombed out by the war. So, now they've amassed 650,000 Russian troops, which they are calling an "occupational force," because they can pretty well take them when they want to, if the implications of what I was reading and agreed on by the think tank people. "The US," they said, "is really out of conventional weapons." And so is most of the Eastern Europe NATO nations. An example is France has 72 Howitzers at the present time, Russia uses about 70 of them a week. They are loaded with weapons! Most Russians said, from a standpoint of backing, the vast majority of Russians want Putin to take off the gloves and speed up this war.

YADA: I think it's important, Kirk, to say that while we are presenting a scenario that is very different ... than America has been led to believe, we are not advocating on behalf of Russia. We have been committed to only one thing since the beginning; we want all who are willing to listen to know the truth. We want them to be prepared for what's going to happen. To tell you the truth and for you to be prepared for what's going to happen you are going to have to hear rhetoric and evidence that is exceedingly caustic to American propaganda. You will find that America isn't the good guy, we aren't the peaceful nation out there, we aren't the nation investing to make the world a better place, we are the merchants of death. We are belligerent, we are the least honorable country on Earth in terms of our dealings with other nations and the way that we present ourselves and then corrupt the flow of information. We are we are better now at disinformation than was the propaganda that came out of Nazi Germany. No nation on earth makes anywhere near as many weapons, supplies as many weapons to the world or has invested anywhere close to the amount of money in their military and spying apparatus. As a matter of fact, if you combine our spying and military, we outpace the rest of the world combined. But it does not put us in a position where we will prevail; we're going to lose and part of this is just the stupidity of America maneuvering. We have invested in the wrong things. We spend a fortune on our Navy, and it isn't worth anything, not anymore. It is so vulnerable now to these hyper sonic weapons and to all manner of high-speed torpedoes that don't hit the vessel, they explode underneath it and break the keel. Our aircraft carriers for support troops are going to be nothing but coffins. Our airplanes don't have enough range from them to engage a formidable foe. We are not who we think we are. We are the reason that the war in the Ukraine has occurred; we encouraged it, we plotted for it, we've equipped it, we overthrew the elected government to make it possible, we're financing it, we're the cheerleader for it and we've put ourselves in a position where only one of two scenarios is now possible.

Russia wins the war on conventional grounds and takes the Ukraine but won't stop there because of what Europe has done and we have a European War. That's the best scenario that exists. If Russia loses the war and we continue supplying enough weapons, if enough Russians die that they decide it isn't worth fighting anymore, then they're going to retaliate against the West with a nuclear attack. Those are the only two options. There are no others, so be prepared.

It's exceedingly important not for us just to talk about the war but also to talk about economic consequences. We have destroyed the value of our currency. It only functions now as a matter of faith because of our international reserve currency status which means that Petro dollars, for example, and most other goods and services are traded internationally in dollars which requires countries to have a stash of dollars to conduct trade. But BRIC was established explicitly to counter that, and the BRIC nations are far more economically powerful now than is America and they're just bidding their time particularly because of this Belt and Road Initiative of China where it's not just the roads that make it possible for China to access all of Europe, all of the Middle East and all of Africa by rail and road not even needing to go to sea but put them in the position where they are the largest investor now in the world by far.

They don't invest like you would do a business deal where if the business defaults you say boy, I'm sorry and you go on your way. No, they do their deals directly with the government and if there's any default, they own you. This battle has been fought and lost.

The timing of it is also interesting because Yahowah returns with Dowd in just over 10 years and about 7 or 8 months at this point. There will be a world war between now and then and that world war is going to start after the collapse of the Syrian Regime which is in tatters; it's got Russia on one side, the United States on the other, Shia Islam on one side and Sunnah Islam on the other; it's a disaster and it's going to fall. Damascus will fall; it will be the final catalyst for that war and to appease the Muslims the United States will force Israel to accept the two-state final solution which will lead immediately to world war just as Neville Chamberlain's sacrifice of Czechoslovakia led to World War II - it is inevitable. In fact, Yahowah has stated it unequivocally and as a result of that we're going to find ourselves in a war that's going to have the United States and Europe on one side, China and Russia on the other side, Sunni and Shia Islam split and people around the world are going to die. They are going to starve, there will be pandemics, nuclear holocausts. That is where we're headed and in the midst of all that there will be a total and complete economic collapse.

Now, Kirk, if we were to say this five or six years ago it wouldn't have been possible. The normalcy complex which is yesterday was all right, tomorrow will be the same, is so pervasive in human thinking because they cannot fathom a radical change from what they have experienced. But COVID radically changed that. No one could have imagined the entire world giving up their livelihoods and liberty and the ransacking of the economy for a virus that turned out to be about as deadly as the flu. No one could have imagined it and yet here we are. No one could have imagined that the United States would deliberately plot a proxy war with Russia that will lead to nuclear holocaust and economic meltdown. No one was then predicting the great reset that is going to be necessary after the success of BRIC. But it's all here now; we're dealing with that reality now, it's inevitable. So, now when we tell you what's going to happen it may seem shocking, but it shouldn't anymore. It's not like we have been saying this for a year or two or came to understand it post COVID or post American sanctions and proxy war with Russia or post the formation of BRIC. We've been saying this for 20 years; the story hasn't changed, even to the details over 20 years.

Now we have an advantage. I would think that you'd be hard-pressed to find anyone that understands the legitimate prophets better than we do: Howsha' who we're studying here, Yasha'yah, my favorite, Yirma'yah, Zakaryah, Mal'aky, certainly the greatest of them in terms of overall impact on the lives of God's people, Moseh. My personal favorite is Yahsha'yah, but the greatest man who ever lived was also a prophet and his name is Dowd, mistakenly called David. By reading what they wrote and putting all the pieces together we have seen the future presented to us in black and white, so we know what's going to happen.

We have another advantage and so I want you to take heed when you hear this. I'm in a very unique situation. No one in the world, not in 2,500 years, has been in this situation. For reasons that are important to Him and to no one else Yahowah, which is God's one and only name, asked me to do this for you. I don't get paid for it. It was a volunteer job, I had no qualifications. If you look at the people God likes to work with it's definitely not bragging. The titles for this job are not prestigious. I am not a prophet; I am not the Messiah. I know who is – it's Dowd, but Yahowah asked for someone to awaken his people prior to His return; a bashar, a herald, a choter. A choter is a sucker that's growing up from the original rootstock and stump that has been cut down. A nakry which is an observant foreigner, a mal'ak which is a messenger, a zarowa who is one who plants the seeds that take root and grow and yada' which means one who finally comes to know and acknowledge what Yahowah had to say. He specifically tells us in Yahsha'yah 11 that there are seven spirits that are devoted to helping him understand what people have missed these last 2,500 – 3,000 years. So, you're listening to something here.

If you go to yadayah.com (y-a-d-a-y-a-h.com) you'll have the opportunity to read 30 volumes including In the Company, an exceedingly important read in today's world about corporate dynamics, and the two books I've written on my exposé on Islam. All these books are free of charge online at yadayah.com, or they can be purchased for only the cost of printing and shipping with no royalty to us from Amazon.

It's all there for you to read, to study, to learn. You can do what you can't do very easily with the spoken word or with the videos that permeate the world now because with the written word, particularly when you're reading it online, you can copy and paste any word we have translated from your favorite browser into an online lexicon or dictionary to look up that word's meaning to validate what we have learned. We have also presented commentary filled with well over a thousand insights first shared here in the Yada Yahowah series that were unknown to the world prior to this revelation. So, this is an extraordinary time and opportunity. If you're one of the people listening to this, take advantage of it. Chances are you're listening to this because Yahowah wants you to. Chances are if you're listening to this, you're already questioning your religion, if you even are religious, you're also questioning your political affiliations if you had been or are political. If you're going to make this journey to where we are, which is to know Yahowah and to be part of His Covenant family, you must forego your religion and your politics.

We are not religious, we are not political; we are anti-religious, particularly Judaism Christianity and Islam and we are anti-political, particularly the largest government forms of politics which would be Communism, Fascism, Socialism. So, that's where are, Kirk. I think you have even more that you wanted to share.

KIRK: It's really quite interestingly. You talk about duplicitous people and that's exactly what the Russians call them. They had a chance to not prolong this war and get out of the deal and they wouldn't do it. In fact, they laughed about it. They had a UN meeting where they wanted to negotiate with the Russians and the Americans decided to just sandbag them and wait a while so they could re-arm them. They rearmed them and then they laughed about it, and it's on record, according to the ___ version. So, Putin and the Russians said, "We can't trust these people no matter what." Now the worm is turned so they said, "Why should you? You're not going to win this war and for a whole host of reasons." It's almost like reading the Civil War. The south's got nothing but cotton and they're going to fight the industrial north. They have no reason to negotiate because they don't trust us; we always lie.

YADA: They did everything they could to negotiate because Russia posted its troops around the Ukrainian border for six months. They did everything they could to get our attention because we were playing the Cuban Missile Crisis but in a far more intense way. So, they recognized that if we were to include what were part of the old Soviet Union countries like the Ukraine into NATO and armed them that Russia could not defend itself, that it would be over. No nation allows a country to threaten its demise. You push a country into a corner, they will respond. So, Russia did everything they could to tell the world don't do this, do not allow the Ukraine to be part of NATO, do not arm the Ukraine. It is like when the Russians put missiles in Cuba because they couldn't convince us to pull ours out of Turkey. So, the Cuban Missile Crisis was waged diplomatically for us to pull our missiles out of Turkey and for the Russians to pull their missiles out of Cuba so that we would de-escalate world conflict. And that's what Khrushchev and Kennedy did. They didn't like each other but they recognized that backing down was the right call. But between George W. Bush who is a raving lunatic and nincompoop, Obama who was utterly unqualified for that position, then you follow that by the likes of who we have seen; Trump, OMG, he can't even talk. So, collectively they have pushed the buttons. And it's not just them. John McCain and Lindsey Graham were hugely involved in this going to the Ukraine and saying we're going to make you a part of NATO, we're going to arm you to fight our mutual foe, we will be with you every step of the way, we will continue to arm and fight with you until you prevail. That was back in 2012 – 2013. That is what we have done.

Then, easily the dumbest person to ever occupy the position of vice president, Kamala Harris, went to Europe; I'm surprised she could even pronounce NATO. She welcomed the Ukraine's participation in NATO and two days later the Russians said to hell with it and crossed the border. That's what happened folks. You can complain about Russia's takeover of Crimea, but 95% of the Crimeans voted for them because they had voted for a government that the United States overthrew. They are Russians. That revolution in Ukraine wasn't a haphazard event. The United States inspired it and armed it, and we talked about this when it was happening, because the Russians actually released the US state department and CIA cable to the revolutionaries encouraging them, arming them. We did it because the Russians and the International Monetary Fund for some stupid reason were vying for who's going to fund the deficits in the Ukraine because the Ukraine is so inefficient, so filled with graft that about 20-25% of the Ukrainian national budget is stolen, so they're so graft-ridden they can't prevail without handouts, and they never paid them back. But the Russians had a means to be able to recoup on their loans which was the pipeline that the ... to Europe, and the United States had none. So the United States overthrew the popularly elected government so that the IMF, which is funded by the United States, could be the primary lender of the Ukraine and therefore controlled the Ukraine. That was our plan, and it was going to cost three to five billion dollars a year to prop up the Ukraine. Now we spend three to five billion dollars a week sending them aide and weapons and that doesn't even account for the country that's broken. I don't know where we are now but somewhere north of 150 billion and racing towards 200 billion. Why? Because a bunch of idiots decided that we could bring Russia to its knees if we fought a proxy war through the Ukraine? We tried a proxy war with Russia in Vietnam; it didn't turn out very well for us. We tried another one in Afghanistan where we clap our hands and say look how well we did using the Taliban to bring down Russia's influence in Afghanistan; it led right to 911 and the growth of Al-Qaida, it turned out great for us. about that turned out great for us. We don't play this game very well.

Between Russia, Australia, Germany and the UK, I don't care. I have some issues, I don't like the Communist system in China, big government is always bad government. I do not like the anti-Semitism in Germany. Yes, we do play some favorites and we have some unfavorites but the fact of the matter is we're not trying to take sides here. I don't know what your arsenal is, Kirk, but mine's pretty meager so there is nothing we're going to do that is going to engage and change this one way or another. All we want to do is to give people information so that they are not hoodwinked, so they're not played for fools, so that they can make an informed and rational decision and so that they can stop trusting their government, stop trusting their religion and then once that happens, they may be open to what Yahowah has to say. Our ultimate mission is that once people have walked away from religion and politics because they realize they can't trust them, that they're willing to listen to what Yahowah has to say and accept the terms and conditions of His Covenant.

So, what more did you learn, Kirk?

KIRK: One last thing I thought was interesting was that she did several shows about how Russia has all these resources and what they need versus what they might want, however, nothing we have they need so I made a list for our show of what they pointed out: 1) Russia gets stronger with their ruble and if they can buy things with the ruble instead of using US dollar then of course the question becomes well who needs the US dollar. 2) When the West loses the war they started there will be no petrodollar, and ... focus of the whole time watch the Ukraine, this is what's going to trigger so much. Just like we watch Syria because we know what that's going to do and so those are the key points.

YADA: We need to understand three more things about the Ukraine:

1) From Yahowah's perspective the Ukraine is among the worst Nations on Earth. Long before the Germans became anti-Semitic and united Europe in the Holocaust, (the Holocaust is a European affair not just a German or a Nazi affair), Europeans were anti-Semitic, and they were jubilant players in the Holocaust. The pogoms in the Ukraine were the worst in the world and they began hundreds of years before the rise of Nazi Germany. There is no nation that per capita has done more to harass, kill and demonize Jews than the Ukraine. So, God does not care much for the Ukraine.

2) The birthplace of the most atrocious and the dominant form of Judaism in Israel and the second largest form of Judaism in the United States where some 40 – 45% of Jews live is the Haredim. Ultra-Orthodox Judaism / Hasidic Judaism was born in the Ukraine. It has one of the most idiotic founders of all time, Baal Shem Tov / Lord of the Good Name, (I don't know if he couldn't write but he certainly didn't write) is attributed to creating it. He was just a blank slate that rabbis have written upon to create Hasidic Judaism. It is repulsive and God despises it.

3) Graft in Ukraine is worse than any country in Europe.

Those three factors tell us that we should not be aiding and abetting the Ukrainians. They should not have held that revolution, they should not have pleaded with the world for weapons, all they're doing is killing their own people and we're aiding and abetting them. This is not a battle we should fight in.

Occasionally a Republican says that we ought not be doing this, we ought to have an accounting of what's going on, we ought to try to salvage America before we try to destroy the Ukraine and Russia, but there's none of them with enough character, backbone and information to stand up and do the right thing. So, there's where we are and it's a really ugly picture.

One news item I'd like to cover is the SatanCon event in Boston. Tucker took on a Satanist from the SatanCon. I think a group of tens of thousands of Christians have signed up to be "Prayer Warriors" against SatanCon 2023. It's going to be the largest satanic gathering in world history. Little do they know. They've got their little picture of Satan as a goat, of course. He's got his horns but the body of a human, as do all gods that are amorphized, they must have the body of a human. This one I think has the hooves although I don't see the bottom of the statue, but it would have to have the hooves and the head of the goat. And there we are.

I'm just finishing Ezekiel 35, so I'm 70% through the book. Ezekiel is in essence Satan's autobiography; it's a play-by-play of who Satan is, what he wants to achieve and how he's going about it. I learned something that is more pervasive. The single most important aspect of the three great fake religions, Judaism, Islam and Christianity, is that they all have their God attack Satan. The Book of Ezekiel is beloved by all three religions. In it the voice, who is the Lord of Babel who claims to be Yahowah (and is His antithesis) is constantly projecting his satanic nature on various people and places which prior to his degradation by Yahowah after his little indiscretion in the Garden of Eden was glorious. So, he wants you to know how glorious he was, and he is now devoted to not only reclaiming that glory but being perceived above Yahowah, and he's been very effective at it. So, in the Book of Ezekiel there's this constant tug of war with Satan wanting you to know I am really, really glorious like in Ezekiel one and the sighting of his Lord above the skies of Babylon, that's Satan and all the projections. He will get into great details as how he was one of the Karuwbym / Cherubs protecting the walls of Eden and which is why Chawah knew him. He goes into great detail about who he was, what he's become and what he wants to achieve. Satan / ha Satan means "the Adversary. It's so funny that SatanCon uses the term Satan without even understanding what the name means and where it came from. Ha Satan means "the Adversary." Why would you worship the Adversary, you idiots? Even Satan knows that title is non-starter for him; he has to destroy any association with who he truly is, the ha Satan title. That's why you see in those three religions the constant attack on Satan because Satan has to destroy any association with that title to be perceived as God. And that's the tug of war that exists all the way through the Book of Ezekiel, "I'm God, I'm Yahowah, you're going to know that I'm God, I'm Yahowah," repeated well over a hundred times after he's done really heinous things and it's all because he has to destroy this affinity with the ha Satan title. So, these nincompoops at SatanCon that think that they are worshipping Satan, Satan despises them. He doesn't want to be known as Satan; he wants to be known as Yahowah. In fact, the 35th chapter which I'm just finishing translating is this attack on the birthplace of Islam; the Lord of Babylon ultimately turns on Muslims. You ask why would he turn on Muslims? If Allah is modeled after Satan, why would you do that? You've got a religion that hates Jews as much as you do. He doesn't want to be known as Allah. Allah's not God, he knows Allah's not God. He doesn't want to be known as Jesus Christ; Jesus Christ isn't God. He sure as hell doesn't want to be known as the Adversary ha Satan. He wants to be known by the name of the only true God Yahowah so he will do everything in his power to destroy Islam in the end because he wants to be known not as Allah but as Yahowah. He can't wipe out or have anybody wipe out God's chosen people, Jews, in Israel because the only place where he has any legitimacy to be seen as Yahowah is by Jews in Israel, so he even turns on Islam. The whole story is just so fascinating.

I'm about 750 pages into this; a lot of it is now presented at the yadayah.com site. It's wonderful that Jacki and her team edit as I write, then David posts the edited material (which is now three volumes in the Babel Series) on the yadayah.com site for you to read even before it's sent to be published.

Again, I want to point out that the last thing Satan wants is to be known and worshiped as Satan. The thing that he wants the most is to be perceived as God; he has achieved his ambition because he is the Lord God of Christianity, Judaism and Islam.

Alright, let's return to Howsha' 5:1:

“Hear this (shama' zo'th – listen to this and process the information),

Shama' means “to listen and to hear,” that's all it means. Many English (I almost hate calling them translations because they are not even good paraphrases) change shama' to “obey.” There is nothing in shama that suggests obedience; it means “to listen” and that's because Yahowah expects that the words He spoke to His prophets to be recited. When you listen to His words being recited you can listen to them even if you are the one reciting them to yourself. When I read a chapter, I read it out loud because I want to hear the sound, I want to retain it such that I read it out loud.

“Hear this (shama’ zo’th – listen to this and process the information), those who are priests and have become religious leaders (ha kohen – ministers tasked with explaining and facilitating participation in the Beryth and Miqra’ey via the Towrah).

Pay attention and be attentive to what you are hearing (wa qashab – listen diligently and accept this information as true, then respond to it), Family of Yisra’el (beyth Yisra’el).

Yisra’el means one of two things; it has a dark and a light meaning. The name is based on sarah, who I think is in the top four or five of the most interesting people in God’s story, certainly the most amazing woman in His story. She would only be rivaled by the likes of Dowd and Moseh, I think in terms of being an extraordinary force for good. I think she’s vastly more important than ‘Abraham, but that’s just my take on it. But it’s her name that sits in the middle of Yisra’el. The name can mean “to struggle and contend with God” or “individuals who engage and endure with God.” I’ll tell you there have been a lot more Yisra’elites that have been on the negative side of that interpretation.

“Hear this (shama’ zo’th – listen to this and process the information), those who are priests and have become religious leaders (ha kohen – ministers tasked with explaining and facilitating participation in the Beryth and Miqra’ey via the Towrah).

Pay attention and be attentive to what you are hearing (wa qashab – listen diligently and accept this information as true, then respond to it), Family of Yisra’el (beyth Yisra’el).

Household of the king and extended family of political leaders (beyth ha melek – home of government rulers), open your ears to hear as tools to evaluate and consider (‘azan – broaden the scope of what you are hearing, give ear and listen; from ‘azan – to weigh, test, prove, and consider, ‘azen – implements and tools, and ‘ozen – ears).

For this (ky) just assessment (ha mishpat – this rational evaluation and reasoned conclusion using sound judgment leading to a justified condemnation) applies to you (la ‘atem).

Who is Yahowah speaking to? It certainly isn’t the Gentile church, the Haredim, Judaism, the Christians, Muslims and definitely not to Gowym.

“Hear this (shama’ zo’th – listen to this and process the information), those who are priests and have become religious leaders (ha kohen – ministers tasked with explaining and facilitating participation in the Beryth and Miqra’ey via the Towrah).

The kohen / ministers.

You said there was a word ...

KIRK: I did, and I’ve done it a million times. Shama’ and shamar are two of my favorite words and were among the first that I translated with the pictographs as well. I know shama’ is always translated “to hear and listen with attention” which is a big deal for any father who's saying pay attention to me, listen to me son, listen to me daughter, but the thing that struck me as I'm looking at it is that there’s an ‘ayn, a picture of an eye at the end of it and I'm saying why? Why isn’t it an ear if it’s listen? The eye is I think to emphasize because you have the shamar which is the only difference; you have the rosh at the end and you can carefully and closely examine this thing. However, the clue is to hear Him you have to read it, or somebody has to read it to you, so there's got to be a visual written record somewhere that I can keep looking at. How do I closely examine and carefully consider anything that I can't get hold of and repeat and repeat and repeat?

YADA: A great example of this is when Muhammad created the Qur'an, they were all recitals and they maintained them orally from person to person for about a hundred years before the first was written down, all oral. When something is oral and you pass it on mouth to ear mouth to ear even at that moment much is lost, much has changed. Even if intelligent adults read three sentences that are passed on one person to the next through a chain of ten people what you get back has very little resemblance to what you began with. That's how the Qur'an was retained. If you look at the Christian Jesus you don't have a single thing he said written down within his lifetime and he himself wrote nothing; that's why the Christian New Testament has more variations than it has words. In fact, about twice as many variations from the oldest manuscripts and the actual number of words in the text isn't even remotely reliable.

Rabbinic Judaism claims a lie that it is based upon an "oral Torah" and that oral Torah was given at the same time the written Towrah was given even though there's no mention of the oral Torah in the written Towrah and even though the written Towrah says this is the only revelation they nonetheless believe that. So, what do you think the chances are from approximately 1500 BCE to 500 CE when the Babylonian Talmud is written down which they claim is the repository of the oral Torah that through that time of 2,000 years of oral transmission that they would have gotten anything right? Zero!

Now the difference is when Yahowah spoke to His prophets beginning with Moseh the instruction was, "Write this down, get a really big scroll and start writing this down because we're going to communicate in writing." When you communicate in writing you can read it at your own pace. That's the advantage of the Yada Yahowah series verses this program, you can read it at your own pace. Someone can read it in London tonight and someone can read it in Sydney, Australia tomorrow or in Philadelphia the next day and they're reading exactly the same text. They can go back to it a week or a month later and there it is and it doesn't change. With the written text you have all the time in the world to make the connections, to think about it and to thumb forward and back connecting it to other things that are written down. When you write something down as we have done 20 years ago and it is still valid that's an extraordinary accomplishment. In Yahowah's case, He wrote things down 3,500 years ago. The written word is vastly superior to the spoken word. All the spoken word does that the written word will not do is convey more emotion through the spoken word so we can reach out to people who might not otherwise come to the Yada Yah site through social media and the spoken Word.

By the way, congratulations to you, Kirk. I understand now you are the new social media tycoon, you had your first advertising endeavor on Facebook.

I also want to thank my favorite person, my wife. She has done an amazing job recently of making the Yada Yah social media presence which is managed by Dee ... on this program and who does an outstanding job of the social media outreach which is all to draw attention to the books themselves, but my wife has put together a number of really elegant animations to help reach out to people and make them feel more comfortable at the site. So, we have a lot going on right now and Yahowah's message is getting more and more presentable and credible to people and we're inviting you to read them.

That is an astounding thing; I've never thought about the fact that shama' / to listen doesn't have a rosh in it. Shamar / to be observant does. So, the one that tells you to be observant, which you would think would have the 'ayn / the eye and the one that tells you to listen doesn't have the rosh / ear but has the eye in it. So, it is saying that if you want to listen to Yahowah you have to open your eyes to read it and if you want to be observant you have to listen to it and process it through your brain. Pretty subtle, huh? God is pretty subtle and doesn't miss a trick, but He cheats because He created this alphabet in the first place to communicate all of these things; He cheats in a really wonderful way, He created this language of Hebrew and He created the alphabet in which it is written. He created the universe so His metaphors can walk on all fours, He does have a considerable advantage. He has a sense of humor and is delighted when Kirk points out that it is really serious that "to listen" has an eye and to "be observant" has an ear.

So, here is Yahowah telling His people this applies to you and you've got a problem. You've become a snare. Judaism is a snare.

I have talked about this before, and I don't think many people have an appreciation of it. I am certain that there's a world out there that wants to label me an antisemite for saying this when in fact I am the furthest from an antisemite on the planet because shem is the Hebrew word for name and I don't think there is anyone on planet Earth in the past 2,500 years who has been as fond of, has been as willing to proclaim and say Yahowah's name and convey its implications as _____. I love the name of His people, Yahuwdah / Yahuwdym, plural, which means "Beloved of Yah." So, we love the name. I have devoted the last 22 years of my life most days eight to ten or twelve hours a day six and seven days a week to translating Yahowah's testimony from the oldest extant sources and then sharing those insights freely with God's people for the express purpose of having as many Israelites as is possible there on Yowm Kipurym in Year 6000 Yah, October 2nd at sundown in 2033 recognizing Yahowah and calling Him out by name as He returns with our Messiah Dowd, our king and the Son of God / Dowd / David. That's why we do this. But here's the rub, folks. Yahowah says this so many times that I can tell it to you confidently. The single greatest threat and hindrance to Jews for the past 2,000 years has not been Nazis, hasn't even been the Roman Catholic church or Imperial Rome imperial before it, hasn't been the satanically driven Islamic jihadist, not even Progressives today. It's Judaism. Judaism is the single greatest hazard to God's people, it has been the force that has done the most to keep Jews from knowing Yahowah's name, to understanding the terms and conditions of his Covenant, to actually attend His Mow'ed Miqra'ey as they were intended and capitalizing upon them. They treat the Towrah as an object and then they label their Babylonian Talmud Torah, they've turned everything Yahowah said into religious tyranny. It's the greatest harm ever perpetrated upon God's people. But it's not just Judaism. Judaism actually emerged simultaneously with Christianity, and it was this interplay between rabbis that created both religions to counter one another, both being wrong. One of the most acclaimed rabbinic students of the day was named Sha'awl. He became known by the Roman name that he chose as Paul. He wrote 14 of the books of the Christian New Testament and he is responsible for inspiring three of the four gospels. The book of Acts is devoted to his life and was written by his publicist. Paul is the Christian New Testament. He claims to be the foremost student of Gamaliel, foremost teacher of rabbis during the day, and he as a rabbinical student knew the Towrah and Prophets well enough to be able to misappropriate passages and to twist them as Satan had done in the Garden for the express purpose of leading gentiles away from the God of the Towrah, Yahowah, the God of Israel.

Had it not been for the teaching of rabbi Paul would not have been equipped to create Christianity; they are to blame. Even worse than that is the response to the stupidity of Paul. Paul is the one who turned the Passover Lamb into God, who robbed Dowd of his title, Son of God and Messiah, and transferred those titles to a caricature known as Jesus Christ for the express purpose of creating a new religion. He went to war with the God whom he said inspired him. And all Jews had to do was say, "No! The Messiah is Dowd. The very text that you're claiming as the basis of your religion says the opposite of what you're claiming. Dowd is the Son of God. Read it! Dowd is the Messiah, it's Dowd who is coming back. God Himself says so, and oh by the way God's name is Yahowah, and this person that the Romans crucified had Yahowah's soul because we were told he did, and he came to fulfill Passover; he is the Passover Lamb. And with the fulfillment of Passover and then with the removal of religious stigma on Matsah where the fungus of religion is removed from our souls, so we are perfected, we are empowered to become the children of Almighty God on Bikuwrym. That's what happened. There could not have been a bodily resurrection because the Towrah says the body of the Passover Lamb is incinerated that night, plus it would be completely counterproductive. It did not happen, it could not happen, he's not the Christ, he's not the Messiah, he's not the Son of God, there was no bodily resurrection, the Passover Lamb never comes back to life, that's not his purpose." And so, by corrupting the purpose of the Passover Lamb Paul destroyed any opportunity that anyone who would believe in the Christian religion would have eternal life. And the rabbis rather than point all this out and to say this is what's written, you're lying, and we can prove it. I did; I wrote four volumes on it called Questioning Paul, why didn't they? I compared what Paul said to what Yahowah said and crucified Paul and destroyed 100% of his credibility. If I could do it, they could do it, but they didn't. Instead of using the truth to destroy this horrible lie perpetrated about Yahowsha' as the Passover Lamb (he was the Passover Lamb but him being the Messiah, the Son of God and then him coming back to life and of Matsah meaning nothing) they went to war against Yahowsha', condemned his name, blotted him out of the records, completely destroyed any chance that Yahuwdym would have of knowing that Yahowah did as He promised in Year 4000 Yah, that He fulfilled the promise of Pesach, Matsah and Bikuwrym and Shabuw'ah so that everyone who would accept those promises and attend those days could become immortal, perfected adopted into the Covenant enriched, empowered and enlightened by God and by destroying the connection between Yahowah and what He did for His people at that time rabbinic Judaism became the greatest force for evil the world has ever known, worse even than Imperial Rome and the Roman Catholic Church, worse than even Islam. Christianity exists because rabbis equipped the man who started it and then didn't know how to handle it, and lied on top of lies. That is not how you prevail. They lied against God rather than attacking the lie from Sha'awl, Paul. You're responsible for what happened; Judaism is responsible. The creation of Christianity led to the Roman Catholic Church and nearly 2,000 years of Jewish persecution and ultimately into the Holocaust. It made the diaspora the third invasion of Rome possible, and it doesn't end there.

Muhammad was done. Living in Petra which was due south of Jerusalem he was finished; he had run out of material, he had confiscated and plagiarized all the (Hanis)? poetry available; the (Hanis)? poetry was Jewish poetry actually. He plagiarized all he could find. He ran out of material and was run out of town following the Satanic Verses. We've talked about that on previous programs and how that led to the Dome of the Hoofie Print and the wild burāq ride which was from Petra to Jerusalem into the non-existent temple at that time. When he got to Yathrib (Yathrib was three-quarters Jewish) he needed material to continue his ruse, so he paid rabbis to cite the fairly recently created Talmud. The Babylonian Talmud had been created within less than 100 years of that time and they recited for money (rabbis are great for doing things for money) Talmud stories to him. He took those stories and twisted them for his own benefit and then they mocked him for twisting them. For mocking him after he paid for them, he turned on them and said, “The easiest way for me to destroy those who were trying to destroy my credibility is to kill them,” which is what he did. Story ends. Without rabbis there is no Islam, Christianity, no Judaism. What a different place it would be. If that were the case Yahowah wouldn't have had to turn to a goym to tell the story. That is the history, and for those who are clinging to any one of these religions expecting a better result shame on you. It hasn't changed in 2,000 years. it's not going to change. So, that's the nature of this passage.

And even with the word that I transliterated, because it's the most difficult to just translate, which is Mitspah, it is a compound of my which means “to either consider the implications of or to question” which means being tsaphah – being observant.

Indeed (ky), you have become (hayah – you exist as) a snare, a dangerous means to control others (pach – you are plotting a calamity to trap and restrict) la Mitspah | with the means to be observant (la Mitspah – approaching the way to be watchful, to explore and examine, to focus upon and consider; from my – to consider the implications of tsaphah – being observant), in addition to (wa) a net (resheth – a means to capture, control, and confine, a network designed to impoverish and dispossess others; from yarash – to disinherit) spread out (parash – scattered around) upon ('al) Tabor | a broken and confused world (Tabor – the confounding abominations of the Earth; from tabar – broken and tebel – perverted and confounded world).” (Howsha / He Liberates / Hosea 5:1)

This is what Yahowah says His people have done.

In Howsha 5:1 Yahowah has divided the society He most cares about into three segments: priests who are ministers, the common people, and politicians. I believe that they are listed in this order for a reason. If the Lowy (which has been converted to Levites. There is no B in the Hebrew language and the wah in Hebrew is either pronounced as an “o” or “u”, so it is Lowy) had listened and done as they were asked Yisra'elites would have heard them speak of Yahowah. Had that occurred they would have responded appropriately because God's word is consistent, it's compelling, it's liberating, it's emancipating, it's enlightening and is the most wonderful thing any of us have of us have ever experienced. Had they done so the people would have relied upon Yahowah's priests and judges to properly interpret and apply the Towrah which would have negated the need for kings. Yahowah didn't want kings, He was opposed to them. You can say, "Yahowah picked Dowd and he's coming back as a king." What Yahowah has said is that you're going to be dependent upon a ruler, and clearly, I'm going to work through people, and if you're not going to listen to My shaphat / judges and My kohen / priests are going to act up and start lying to people, then at least I'm going to give you a king that has been a shepherd and a king whose attitude and aptitude are as similar to Mine as I can find on the planet. (Which was Dowd) So, there would have been no need for kings had we just done what Yahowah was encouraging.

Since He elected to use a different word for "listen" for ministers, for individuals, and for leaders, let's see if we can ascertain why. For the priests, Yahowah chose shama'. It is the most common word in the Hebrew language for "listen." When God wants to encourage us to listen to Him, He uses shama' | listen to Him. It is not nuanced beyond "hearing." And yet, because it is often used in conjunction with shamar | to closely examine and carefully consider, and shares two of three letters in its composition in common, we may conclude that the observant individual listens to God.

The aforementioned letters comprising these words elucidate their similarities. Both begin with | sh | Shin which is drawn as teeth . You might say teeth? What are you biting into here? If you were to start pronouncing words you would find that vowels are open mouth sounds. Consonants are closed mouth sounds; to make consonant sounds you are constantly placing your tongue on the back side of your teeth. So, the teeth are symbolic of words. They are both followed by  | m | Mem. The  | Mem is drawn to show water. Water is the universal solvent and is the source of life. That's why when we're looking for planets that might have life the first thing we look for is water. If there is liquid water, there is the opportunity for life.

Those are the first two letters. The  | sh | Shin was drawn to show teeth and was used to depict the words we convey when we manipulate our tongues behind them and lips and teeth to form sounds. The  | Mem is a picture of water and, thereby, presents both the life-giving and cleansing nature of water.

It's interesting the creation account talks about their being water very early on in the process and now with the launch of the most recent James Webb Space Telescope we're able now to look into these interstellar nurseries, and guess what we find; just enormous amounts of water. Clearly, Yahowah knew what He was talking about. Water has not only created the nursery for stars, and we as humans are the result of stardust particularly with carbon being the essence of our ability to be living creatures. So, as a result we are being asked to listen to and observe words which prepare us for life. That's what shama' would convey.

The concluding letter in shamar | observe is a ר | r | Rosh. It reveals a human head where we ingest what surrounds us using our ears, eyes, nose, and mouth, and then process it all in our brain. Shama' | listen, curiously and by way of confirmation, ends with an ע | a | Ayin or eye. This is particularly relevant because it affirms something I've been sharing for the past 22 years: we listen to Yahowah by observing the words He has inscribed on our behalf and reciting them.

Don't dress up the Towrah, kiss it and hold it up like it's a whore! Open it; read it!

This was the instruction given to the kohen – to the individuals specifically tasked with conveying and interpreting the word of God to the people such that they might understand the Towrah, participate in the Beryth, and attend the Miqra'ey. All teachers begin as students who listen before they speak.

I don't know if there's much more we could say than is more important than that, Teachers begin as students who listen before they speak. Members of the Covenant family begin by listening to the Word of God before they try to speak to God. This idea of praying without ceasing, being a "Prayer Warrior" yabbering to God when you don't even know His name, you haven't even bothered to read what He communicated through His Towrah guidance, you're clueless what He communicated through His Prophets, you've misinterpreted everything He said, and you want Him to listen to you. What are you, nuts? What do you have to say that isn't going to irritate Him? "Oh, God, I really want to know Your will for my life." Then read the Towrah, idiot! If you want to know Yahowah's will for your life, then read the story of Dowd. ... my life and every life. If you don't like Dowd because he's just too much of a loveable rogue, then read the story of Moseh. It's extraordinary what Yahowah wants.

God is telling us that He wants us to listen to Him before we start yabbering to Him. I talk to God. I've had occasions recently where I've been put in what I thought was an untenable position. I've been working at this job for 22 years and here I start into the book of Daniel and the beginning chapters are rubbish; the history is all convoluted filled with religious and political statements. It's just wrong. I said to my wife, "How am I supposed to deal with this? It's blatantly untrue. It's not that it fails the test of Dabarym 18 to prove who speaks for God and who doesn't which says if you get anything in the past, present or future wrong or you say anything that's inconsistent with what Yahowah has conveyed or you speak in the name of a god other than Yahowah, like Jesus Christ, ha Shem or Allah, that you're not only a false prophet but you're better off dead. It's not that he violated that, everything he was saying was wrong. How do you deal with that?

I remember retiring one night after I was struggling with this and sure enough a voice welled up in me and said, "I'm going to explain it to you and after I explain this to you, you can go back and write; you're going to understand exactly what the book of Daniel represents." I listened to that voice, and I wrote that the book exactly as God shared with me. It's now published for you to read as part of the first volume of the Babel series at yadayah.com.

Then I started the book of Ezekiel. We're still in Babylon but thank God I'm out of Daniel. It begins with a misstatement relative to the timing when it says, "This is when Word of God came to me," and I said no that can't be true. So, that's not a good start. Then it presents God as if He were Satan. He's got his fancy chariot wheels, the all-seeing eye everywhere surrounding him, these beasts have the faces of the principal signs of the zodiac that were so popular in Babylon and of course he is appearing above Babylon which is exactly where Yasha'yah 14 told us we would find him _____. So, you read through this and it's a presentation of Satan pretending to be God.

From there you have what is nothing but a bunch of tales of BDSM, I'm sure it was before the term was even invented, of the Lord of Babel telling Ezekiel who is his submissive to do torturous things that are flat out embarrassing, and then it gets worse because before long you find the Lord of Babel sexually abusing Jewish women, pimping them out as if he is the pimp and they are his prostitutes, then he turns on his prostitutes, dehumanizes them, then has men rape and kill them as we would find he tells the Muslims to do in Islam. It's a horrible story. Through the first 25 chapters he comes up with 25 different ways to kill Jews: He wants to boil them alive, to slice them with his sword, to plague them with his poisonous words. He has so many different ways to kill Jews. This is obviously not from God. It doesn't fail the Dabarym 18 test because it assumes you are reading something that you might actually think could have come from God and you're looking for if it's 100% accurate. Well, this is 100% inaccurate. You have to be a total nincompoop to think this came from God; it dehumanizes and demonizes Jews and is the most anti-Semitic book I've ever read. I've studied Mein Kampf, the Qur'an and the Christian New Testament and have written books on all of them; Ezekiel is the most anti-Semitic tome I've ever read. It was Jewish religious leaders that put that piece of crap in the middle of legitimate Prophets and brought this plague upon themselves. I'm going to tell you when you are committed as I am to have done this for 22 years, written 30 books now, have done tens of thousands of archived radio shows around the world, and you're taking a would-be prophet who is beloved by three religions and you're saying that that is the voice of Satan, I would say that takes some courage. How many people are going to be that bold? And then when you're willing to say this is graphic, sexual, perverted, grotesque and not pull any punches, that takes some courage too because it's even hard on your own team to read that kind of stuff. But the voice on Ezekiel was as clear as I'm talking to you tonight, in fact clearer, "Do this for Me, do this for My people. This book has plagued them, harassed them, dehumanized them for 2,500 years. Liberate women and My people from its scourge. Demonstrate all the ways that it is wrong." And we are.

So, I'm telling you Jews have been their own worst enemy. Putting this book in the middle of those prophets is exactly what God is talking about here. Why would you do that? Do you hate yourself so much that you would bring this kind of shame and disgrace upon yourselves?

For the people, God selected qashab. He wants those He is talking about to "pay attention, which is what qashab means, and to be diligent regarding the response to what we are hearing." It is in our interest to "be attentive, receive the message, and accept it as true so that we respond appropriately to it." And let's be clear – Yahowah is addressing Yisra'el, not Christians or Haredi. He has no interest in those who are religious even listening to Him because He cannot stand to be around them. Yes, God is repulsed by the Haredi, Christians, Muslims and indeed by Progressives. The worst of the Progressives in America was finally taken off the Foreign Affairs Committee that was finally a That is one of the worst human beings on the planet.

Just imagine being a Progressive. You say you are for women's rights and you're wearing the hijab in devotion to a man who was a misogynist, a rapist and a pedophile and you think you are being somehow enlightened to wear that around your head when it was prescribed by the only man I think could have rivaled Paul in being evil. Literally a multiple-time rapist, a pedophile of the first order and a horrific misogynist. Muslim women are degraded worse than are Orthodox Jewish women because of the nature of the Qur'an.

Qashab /  is graphically presented as the sun rising or falling on the horizon, , the teeth  which is for words and the last letter the beyth  which is the family home with a single entrance as depicted from above. For Yisra'el, this reveals that there would be a new day which would lead them home.

You are the artist and have fallen in love and have written a wonderful article on the nature of the letters that is available in the Community section of yadayah.com. And here we have the sign of the dawning of a new day, one of greater enlightenment, of teeth with words and of home which would lead them home.

KIRK: You can even say a light shining on the words.

YADA: Which lead us home.

For Yisra'el's political leaders, (that was the third group) Yahowah used 'azan. While pronounced differently, it was written identically in the ancient text to 'ozen | ear. It depicts our 'ozen | faculty of hearing as an 'azen | tool or implement to deploy in the 'azan | testing, proving, evaluating, and considering what we can 'azan | incline and open our ears and open our minds to hear.

'Azan אָזַן was scribed with the first letter in the Hebrew alphabet, the alef א which is also the first letter in 'ab | father and 'el | God. It depicts the ram's head which was symbolic of leadership, leading, protecting and even living with the flock. The second letter z | ז is shown as a plow which would till the ground to make it receptive for seeds to grow. The third letter is a nun נ which is either a seed sprouting and growing to conceive something that is fruitful and new life or, to me it's likened to a sperm which is the source of new life and giving birth to a child. So, it's the leader of the flock plowing the ground so that it is receptive to the seeds taking root and growing. And so, in these characters, Yahowah has explained the role of those who seek to lead His people. If you're going to lead God's people you need to listen. You need to be a leader who plows the ground such that the weeds are moved aside and the ground is receptive to the seeds God is sewing and that you are sharing taking root and growing.

That's how to be a leader; lead by example. What a lovely idea. How do you think that Dowd became so articulate and wrote such magnificent Mizmowr / Psalms? How did he write the 119th Psalm which has eight statements about each of the 22 letters in the Hebrew alphabet in alphabetical order to describe how to maximize the time we spend observing the Towrah? Do you think that he wrote that without having studied the Towrah? Do you think he wrote these beautiful songs without having listened to God sing to him? One must be a student before one teaches, one must be a listener before one speaks. I've been doing this a long time. I didn't speak this vociferously, this boldly and bluntly until I spent a very long time translating, studying and contemplating the words that God has shared with us, and I would tell you that that the beauty of what we're sharing with you is that I'm not telling you anything that you cannot verify yourself, all of it.

Dee and Kirk, you have looked at the words that Yahowah has conveyed through His prophets presented from the oldest expanse sources and translated in an amplified manner where every pertinent meaning is presented and where the most ___ form of the word is presented so that you can copy it and paste it to any search engine to verify those translations.

Everything that we're sharing with you is derived from what Yahowah has shared with us. We're not plowing new ground; we're not claiming that we have special insights that no one else has. Even when Yahowah says I want you to understand this is the proper approach to this book of Daniel or Ezekiel. I'm not basing anything, but I'm sharing with you, off a unique revelation that was only given to me. God said, "I want you to explain this to the people based upon what you're reading. I want you to translate everything in Ezekiel from beginning to end and explain it; it's all there."

You can challenge everything that I have written, every conclusion I have drawn. Every insight I am sharing is all there for you verified based upon what Yahowah's Prophets have conveyed with us. That's really why we're all here, why we're committed to awakening God's people to enlarging the Covenant family, to exposing lies and to sharing the truth. We want God's people aware of who He is, what He is offering, what He expects in return and we do what He does which is expose and condemn religion because until you walk away from it, until you're like 'Abraham and on the road away from the birthplace of institutionalized religion and its integration into governance of Ur in Babylon, until you're leaving it and walking away as Moseh had done from his position in Egypt (which is why he was tending sheep), look at Dowd that was in Bethlehem, he was the only one of Yshay's / Jesse's sons that wasn't around the father in the metropolitan areas near where Shamuw'el was. He had to go fetch him. Until you've done that God can't reach out to you and you can't know Him. But once you've done it, that opportunity is available to you. So, that is the reason why Yahowah would spend so much time exposing and condemning religion as He has done throughout the book of Howsha', probably the most comprehensive book from that perspective.

So, this is God's message to you. We want you to listen to Him; we speak His words to you. Our commitment is to properly render what He has said in the most common language of the world, the language spoken by more Jews and more people than any other to translate the words that God has conveyed to us as accurately and as completely as possible from the oldest extant sources and then to explain what God is saying and make it relevant to people today by making the necessary connections to go from knowing to understanding. That is our role and hopefully you will capitalize upon it.

We are 30 minutes past our normal allotted time. Thank you for sticking it out with me and for your assessment of the universe. Thank you for your assessment of the universe the way it is today ... and throw in what I thought was important for people to hear because it's going to get rough out there and there's only one successful way to opt out.

We look forward to being with you at this time next week. Maybe we'll be a little bit less verbose. We invite you to join our chat room, it's a chance for family to listen live to the broadcast and to share with one another enjoying what it means to be part of the Covenant family. We encourage all who are new to this to go to yadayah.com and start reading, beginning with the first volume of An Introduction to God and read right through to the end. There's enough to keep you occupied and thinking for a very long time. My wife first wrote me after she had spent the better part of two or three weeks reading day and night what was at that time probably ten percent of what we have available today, and through which she came to know Yahowah, and you will too.

So, may Yah bless, thank you for listening, happy Shabat to one and all and may you have a wonderful day tomorrow as you get to enjoy your time with our Heavenly Father. Good night.
